

Just in Time ... Just for You! and In Tune With You: “Rangayyan’s flute playing is clear and sweet, and the melodies often feature rippling runs as well as pure sustained notes, with good intonation of both high and low notes. The underlying drum rhythms ground the soaring melodies without tethering them unduly which makes them more in tune with meditative purposes ... the music is soothing without being dull or soporific. Whatever your inclination, these could be just the tunes for you.”

“The Indo-Canadian duo Raj Rangayyan and Utpal Mazumdar has produced a very fine selection of compositions for flute and percussions with the unpretentious title If You Have the Time. This is really an excellent piece of work, for which the artists have chosen to stay close to the authentic sound ... this album is a clear testimonial of undiluted traditional Indian music ... the rustic sound of Raj’s bamboo flute and the crispy dry beat of Utpal’s drums seem designed to carry the listener into some timeless realm ... the CD has an earthy feel, and the music’s power is enhanced by its simple and straightforward rendition.”

“Listen, Honey captures an easy, natural love, the sort of everyday miracle event ... the overall feeling is one of peace. It echoes through the melodies and especially the silences. This is more than a rearrangement of traditional ragas.”

"I really love these compositions. I have no words to describe internal peace of mind that I got today.... I would like to thank you for these soothing compositions you have created... Really admirable ..."

Eons to Eternity: "... it is so very poetic that you have used morning ragas for the concept of eternity... from an Eastern perspective, eternity makes sense associated with new life and thus morning. I think this makes such an uplifting artistic statement. It's a really beautiful disc ... playing is beautiful ... sounds great ... and the recording quality is also very nice." "Piece of heaven, not just a CD."

Concerts: “It was a lovely time and very beautiful and peaceful music.” “The concert last night was totally soothing.” “I thoroughly enjoyed both the concerts and so did our guests... In fact, I listened to your CDs all day today to continue our wonderful experience.” “May we look forward to the next performance for one can savour the aftertaste of last night’s performance only for so long...”
